STUDENT SEC'Y WAS VICTIM OF THE INFLUENZA

Howard Melville Died After a Short Illness.

EIGHT YEARS SECRETARY.

Was Great Assistance to the Students in Managing College Affairs.

The recent epidemic of Spanish Influenza which has taken such a heavy toll in the city did not spare the University. Howard Melville, the popular secretary of the Students' Society, died on Sunday, October 19th, after an illness of about two weeks.

Although Melville had been sick for some time, his death came as a great surprise to most of his friends and associates about college, for only a few days previous the doctors had reported that he was progressing favorably and would soon be about again. As so often happens in the case of influenza, however, the patient had a relapse, which rapidly proved fatal.

Since he first entered upon his work in connection with the affairs of the undergraduate body, eight years ago, Melville has always been an energetic and willing worker for the welfare of the students. He was installed as secretary of the Students' Society on the advice of Major G. MacDonald and Mr. G. Curry, of the Advisory Board of the Union. At the time of his coming, the affairs of the students were in a most confused state, and the outlook was hardly cheery. In spite of this handicap, matters, under his guidance, became steadily better, until, at the present time, the Society has amassed a considerable sum of money in reserve, out of which the Students' Council was able to vote $5,000.00 to last year's Victory Loan.

In addition to being secretary of the Students' Society, Howard Melville held the office of secretary-treasurer of "McGill Daily," and looked after the finances of the college publication with great success. He was also secretary of the Hockey Club, and an important factor in the success of that body in recent years. As secretary of the McGill Union, he spent many hours of hard work in his office there, and was a familiar figure to all the students that will be sorely missed in the future.

During the hockey season last year he occupied the post of secretary of the Montreal City Hockey League, and of the Eastern Hockey Association, and did much to render amateur hockey free from any taint of professionalism.

Mr. Melville is survived by his wife and a baby girl, three years old. His father, R. Melville, is secretary of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

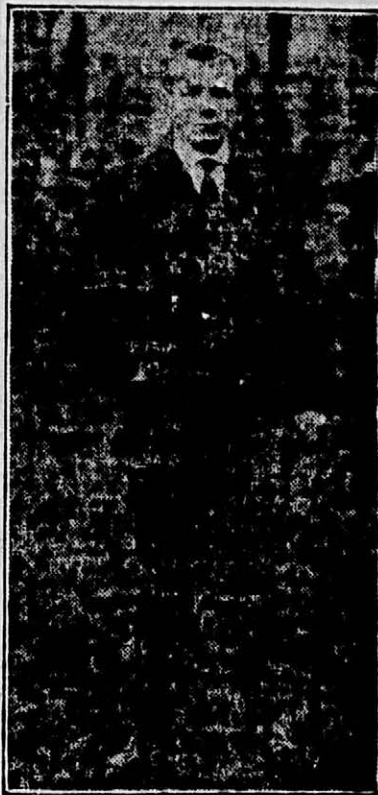

FABULOUS FRIVOLITY EVEN AT OLD AGE

Historic Arts Building Sacrifices Old Time "Respectability" to Vainglory.

Marvel of marvels, the Arts Building shines resplendent, externally at least, in a coat of new paint. These certainly are momentous days. As we watched our benefactors, white overalls and bedabbed, boldly obliterating the blemishes and scars of a century, we were fearful within ourselves lest at any moment such acts of sacrilege might bring down dire calamity. But no; the work went on apace. Occasionally a learned professor in deep mental abstraction hastened up with the inevitable pile of books on his arm, almost collided with the ladder, turned aside to pass under, then abruptly and with a start wheeled about and passed around. We may boast to the contrary, but the fact remains that we are still to a considerable extent the slaves of mediaeval superstition.

As we note this almost revolutionary tendency on the part of the Arts Faculty to spend their substance, erstwhile so carefully conserved, in gratifying worldly vain glory, we must shake our heads in warning. That there is danger of sacrificing our dignity, dust and dinginess to attractiveness (Continued on page 2.)

WOUNDED IN LEG.

CAPT. A. F. ARGUE, Med. '14.

FORMER MED. '19 MAN IS REPORTED KILLED

Recently sad news came to Kentville, Nova Scotia, when Mrs. Gerald Lechmere Ward received a cable from the British Admiralty, stating that her eldest son, Surgeon-Probationer N. Claude Ward, R.N.V.R., had been killed on September 12th, 1918, at the age of 21 years.

After a successful medical course of one year at Dalhousie University, and three years at McGill with the class of Med. '19, he carried on the traditions of his family and race and volunteered for the British Naval Service, and was appointed surgeon to a destroyer. His father fought in the South African War and his grandfather was a captain in the British army, and for generations his ancestors have held commissions in the Imperial army and navy. Besides his mother, he left to mourn their loss, Ernestine, wife of Harold M. Chase, Barrister, Evangeline, sisters, and one brother, Reginald, in the 10th Siege Battery, and many relatives and friends.

In quiet courage, chivalry, gentleness and general quality of character, he was a fine example of the Anglo-Saxon spirit.

"CANADA."

The following poem has been written especially for McGill Daily by Palmer Cox, author of the famous Brownie Stories. The writer is now in his seventy-fifth year, but sound enough in heart, wind and limb to go over the top, as his father before him did at Lundy's Lane and Niagara.

Born at Granby, Quebec, Mr. Cox has probably spent more hours fishing on Brome Lake than any man in Canada, dead or alive, and he is still engaged in playing the sport of his boyhood there.

By Palmer Cox.

(Written for McGill Daily.)

O Canada, oft robed in white
Though long unknown afar,
Thy glory blazes forth to-night,
Like Caesar's northern star.

The fiftal nations shift their place
Mid people weak of mind,
But truly fixed, you show your face
Without a change outlined.

Land of the maple, spruce and pine,
The beaver, lynx and bear,
Though calm and modest in your line,
When wanting, you are there.

The home of truth, and patient tone,
And love that comes to stay
Where secret daggers are unknown
You hold your peaceful sway.

But when the vengeful blade must rise,
To deal the well-earned blow,
It will not pause, till writhing lies
The hell-doomed dragon foe.

M'GILL MEN IN TANK BN. FULL OF PEP

Form Society to Keep Old Spirit Alive.

"THE MCGILL TANKERS."

Pte. "Bill" Kearns is President; R. Herring, Arts '18, Representative to McGill Daily

The following letter to the Editor of McGill Daily was received during the enforced holiday of the past few weeks and it will, we are sure, be gratifying to the students of McGill who are continuing their courses of study here to find that their comrades overseas are desirous of keeping in close touch with the University and its activities.

It will be remembered that the Tank Battalion which was recruited here last spring contained one company composed almost exclusively of McGill men and their friends, and that the unit before leaving for England created a most favorable impression in the minds of the authorities and the public alike for smartness and discipline.

Sherford Bridge Camp,

Friday, Oct. 25th, 1918.

The Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—Now that the University has once again opened its doors and the various societies commencing to carry out their regular activities, we, the graduates and undergraduates of "Old McGill," serving with the First Canadian Tank Battalion, wishing to keep in as close touch as possible with the college, gathered together one evening in Bovington Camp and there organized our own society, Private William Kearns, Science '19, acting as chairman, and Private Frank Bowles, Law '18, as secretary. The meeting, impromptu as it was, proved a great success, there being about forty present, all displaying the greatest enthusiasm. Private Kearns explained the object of the meeting and immediately called for nominations for the several offices.

The elections resulted in Private Kearns being elected president; Corporal William Taylor, Theology '18, vice-president, and Private Frank Bowles as secretary. Representatives were then elected from the various Faculties: John Purcell, Arts '18, for Arts, Law and Theology; Private Leonard Ereaux, Medicine '22, and Corporal Leslie Code, Science '19, for Science.

President Kearns then asked for suggestions for a name for the Society, and after considerable discussion it was decided to call it the "McGill Tankers." Letters dealing with the Battalion's activities were to be (Continued on page 4.)

PROXIMATE ENGLISH EDUCATIONALISTS

Pay Visit to McGill in the Interests of Closer Co-operation.

The British Universities Mission which recently arrived in the United States in response to an invitation on the part of the Council of National Defence, diverted their tour sufficiently to enable them to spend a few days visiting the principal Canadian university cities. Unfortunately, owing to the abnormal conditions created by the influenza epidemic, McGill was obliged to welcome the visitors with closed and silent halls. The circumstances under which the Mission inspected Laval University, Toronto University and other institutions were similar to those which prevailed at McGill—all academic activity was suspended.

The British Universities Mission visits America with the ambition "to inquire into the best means of procuring closer co-operation between British and American educational institutions," and by this means strengthening the bonds of sympathy which now unite the English-speaking world. To this end it is the purpose of the Mission to study educational conditions and requirements in America, with a view to arranging a broader (Continued on page 2.)

VALUABLE TIME LOST

The powers that be have decreed that McGill shall remain closed for another week. In the face of this decision we, in our humble capacity, have only one course to follow.

The influenza epidemic has meant a very serious interruption of our academic work even before it had actually been commenced. The loss of time is to be made up we have not heard but certainly either the session must be extended beyond the first of May or else the work before us will have to be greatly concentrated. As for the latter method of solving the problem we are inclined to doubt its practicability. True there is one other way of gaining a week or so in this term and that is by cutting down the Christmas Holidays though the advisability of pursuing such a course may be seriously questioned. Christmas Holidays shorter than the customary ten days would not make it possible for students who live at any considerable distance from Montreal to spend the holiday at home.

Possibly even a greater objection to encroaching upon the Christmas Holidays is the fact that it is doubtful whether one long uninterrupted term would secure the greatest efficiency in the end. In short it is too much to expect that the whole session's work can justly and satisfactorily be crammed into one long interrupted term.

It seems that the only practical solution to the problem is the extension of the session and even to this there are serious objections. Men who have positions awaiting them in the Spring will regard any such arrangement with a certain amount of disfavour. Nevertheless the problem is on the whole session so that it may it is in any case largely a matter of properly planning the work of the whole sessions that it may be accomplished with the greatest possible expediency and with a minimum sacrifice of efficiency.

"PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES"

Echoes from France carry back to us the strains of that soldier ditty, "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile." Writers say that no other song is so popular among the English speaking fighters. The reason why it jumps so readily to the tongue of the campaigner in foreign lands is because it meets one of his most piquant needs.

A soldier must have something to bolster him up. Not that his courage or his determination waver in the slightest degree; it is his spirit that droops under exacting conditions of his daily existence. He needs jollying.

His life is restricted until he is concerned almost entirely with the ordinary matters of living. He has nothing to distract his interest from petty discomforts, no luxury to counteract slight grievances.

As a result the soldier is very apt to fall into a state of pessimism which transforms every petty obstacle or discomfort into a mountain of ill-luck.

Pack up your troubles. Make the best of things. Take inconveniences as a matter of course, if you must, and look ahead. When you seem overwhelmed, do your best, and you'll get ahead. Smile, boys, it's the style.

and more comprehensive system of post-graduate study which will be of common benefit to graduates of Canadian, American and English universities.

The British Universities Mission has a distinguished personnel. Of the seven members which comprise it, the first is Dr. Arthur Everett Shipley, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, Master of Christ's College and Reader in Zoology. Dr. Shipley is a friend of Dr. J. C. Adams, of the Medical Faculty of McGill University, and is by no means a stranger at McGill.

The other members of the Mission are of like prominence. Two are noted lady educationalists, Miss Caroline Spurgeon, Professor of English Literature at Bedford College, University of London, and Miss Rose Sidgwick, Lecturer on Ancient History, University of Birmingham.

ness, sanitation and common sense we know but too well. Let those, therefore, who would lust after the praise and approval of men be cautious and regard graduation, lest the soul of Discord raise the rising wind.

But this attack upon the exterior of the hitherto highly "respectable" Arts building is by no means the first outrage to which our ancient edifice has recently been subjected. For even before this latter attack was premeditated, our worthy administrators have so far yielded to man's vulgar desire for worldly comfort as to actually "renovate" the Arts smoking room. This historic sanctum, which now so dazzles the eyes with its glaring gorgeousness, surely marks the dawn of frivolity.

KILLED IN ACTION.

Hodgson, Sergt. S. J.—Sergt. Sydney James Hodgson, Arts '19, who was hardly 18 years of age when he joined the 66th Battery in 1916, was killed in action on September 27th, advice received by his father, Arthur K. Hodgson, 448 Strathcona Ave., Westmount, state. Sergt. Hodgson, an only son, was born in Montreal, was educated at Westmount High School, and was president of First Year Arts at McGill. In the summer of 1916 he joined the 66th Battery and went to France in August of that year. He had seen fourteen months' active service and had escaped previous wounding. He would have been twenty-one years of age in March next. His father recently received word that his son had been recommended for a commission.

McDiarmid, Major R.—Many students of recent years will learn with regret of the death in action in the recent heavy fighting of Captain and Acting Major Benjamin McDiarmid, Arts '14, of the Alberta Regiment. Major McDiarmid, whose home was in Entwistle, Alberta, was a most popular undergraduate during his college course, taking a prominent part in the Mock Parliament, the Arts Undergraduates' Society, and other student organizations. In 1916 he enlisted as a Lieutenant in the West and had risen to the acting rank of major before meeting his death before Cambrai.

Pulford, Capt. F. M.—Captain Frederick Milne Pulford, a past student of McGill, who enlisted as a private in a second division Winnipeg battalion, is reported killed in action on October 1. He won his commission after long service in the field and recently was promoted to the acting rank of captain. His home was in Winnipeg.

Shanks, Lieut. D. A.—Lieut. Daniel Albert Shanks, Science '10, youngest son of Dr. James C. Shanks, Med. '81, Howick, Que., was reported missing on September 21, after serving with the Royal Air Force since July, 1917, and a month later was reported dead. Lieut. Shanks was born in 1888, and attended the Montreal High School, graduating from McGill in 1910, when he was offered the chair of Physics and Engineering at Tangehan Engineering College. After completing two years he resigned and returned to Canada to enlist in the R. A. F. He was decorated by the Chinese Government for distinguished services before leaving China and was the recipient of a handsome illuminated address from his pupils.

Capt. George Shanks, Med. '08, his brother, was at one time medical superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital, and is at present serving with the Indian Medical Service in Mesopotamia.

Smith, Lieut. Walter C.—Lieut. Walter C. Smith, Science '16, of the Canadian Field Artillery, is officially reported killed in action on September 30. He was 23 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith, 26 Seely street, St. John, N.B. In 1915 he enlisted as a gunner in the 2nd Canadian Divisional Ammunition Column, and won promotion to the commissioned ranks overseas. Besides his parents, Lieut. Smith is survived by three brothers, one of whom, Percy G., is with a siege battery in France. The others are H. Lester Smith, barrister, in Albert Co., N.B., and Reid J., Bank of Nova Scotia clerk at Yarmouth, N.S. Lucy, a sister, is at Acadia College.

Stewart, Capt. William.—Captain "Will" Stewart, Arts '05, Law '08, killed in action on October 20, was one of the best known of the younger generation of McGill graduates. He was in practice in Montreal when he joined the 14th Battalion in 1916, and had previously been a company officer in the McGill C. O. T. C. Battalion, of which he was one of the original officers. Undergraduates found in him a warm friend and the Graduates Society mourns one of its keenest members. He had served on the Headquarters' Staff for some time.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Calder, Capt. W. M.—A telegram has been received from Ottawa by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Calder, Lachute, informing them that their second son, Honorary Captain and Quartermaster William McOaire Calder, Arts '18, of the Canadian Forestry Service, France, was accidentally killed on November 1st.

The late Captain Calder was born in Lachute 24 years ago, and received his education at Lachute Academy, graduating in 1912. After an interval he commenced further studies at McGill in the autumn of 1914, and when the first universities company was formed in April, 1915, to reinforce the P.F.C.L.L., he offered his services, and went overseas as a member of that unit. After several months' active service he became ill with appendicitis, was operated upon and removed to England, where he spent a number of months in various hospitals, and after recovering was for a time in one of the military offices in England. In September, 1916, when the 242nd Forestry Battalion was being formed, he returned to Canada to receive a commission as Lieutenant in that regiment, and as such crossed to England in November, and a short time later went to France and had since then been a valued member of the Forestry service.

Conroy, Cadet Paul S.—Cadet Paul Servillan Conroy, Law '13, who died at the base hospital, Toronto, on October 11, of influenza-pneumonia, was 28 years old, the son of Thomas Conroy, 48 St. Louis Square, Montreal. He went to Toronto early in August to train in the aviation corps. His illness lasted only a few days, death resulting. Mr. Conroy was educated at Loyola College, where he was graduated with the degree of B.A. in 1910. Entering McGill he was graduated in 1913 with the degree of B.C.L. Mr. Conroy was a member of the firm of Stuart Cox and McKenna, later practicing his profession under his own name.

Holbrook, Lieut. C. E.—Four days after his marriage to Miss Kathleen Stuart Cains, daughter of Mrs. Fred. L. Cains, Montreal, Lieut. Charles E. Holbrook, Med. '08, of the United States Medical Reserve Corps, passed away in the Ross Memorial pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, on October 18, of influenza-pneumonia. Dr. Holbrook was formerly of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and recently received his commission as a Lieutenant in the United States Medical Reserve Corps. He expected to leave shortly for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

STUDENT SEC'Y WAS VICTIM OF THE INFLUENZA

Howard Melville Died After a Short Illness.

EIGHT YEARS SECRETARY.

Was Great Assistance to the Students in Managing College Affairs.

The recent epidemic of Spanish Influenza which has taken such a heavy toll in the city did not spare the University. Howard Melville, the popular secretary of the Students' Society, died on Sunday, October 19th, after an illness of about two weeks.

Although Melville had been sick for some time, his death came as a great surprise to most of his friends and associates about college, for only a few days previous the doctors had reported that he was progressing favorably and would soon be about again. As so often happens in the case of influenza, however, the patient had a relapse, which rapidly proved fatal.

Since he first entered upon his work in connection with the affairs of the undergraduate body, eight years ago, Melville has always been an energetic and willing worker for the welfare of the students. He was installed as secretary of the Students' Society on the advice of Major G. MacDonald and Mr. G. Curry, of the Advisory Board of the Union. At the time of his coming, the affairs of the students were in a most confused state, and the outlook was hardly cheery. In spite of this handicap, matters, under his guidance, became steadily better, until, at the present time, the Society has amassed a considerable sum of money in reserve, out of which the Students' Council was able to vote $5,000.00 to last year's Victory Loan.

In addition to being secretary of the Students' Society, Howard Melville held the office of secretary-treasurer of "McGill Daily," and looked after the finances of the college publication with great success. He was also secretary of the Hockey Club, and an important factor in the success of that body in recent years. As secretary of the McGill Union, he spent many hours of hard work in his office there, and was a familiar figure to all the students that will be sorely missed in the future.

During the hockey season last year he occupied the post of secretary of the Montreal City Hockey League, and of the Eastern Hockey Association, and did much to render amateur hockey free from any taint of professionalism.

Mr. Melville is survived by his wife and a baby girl, three years old. His father, R. Melville, is secretary of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

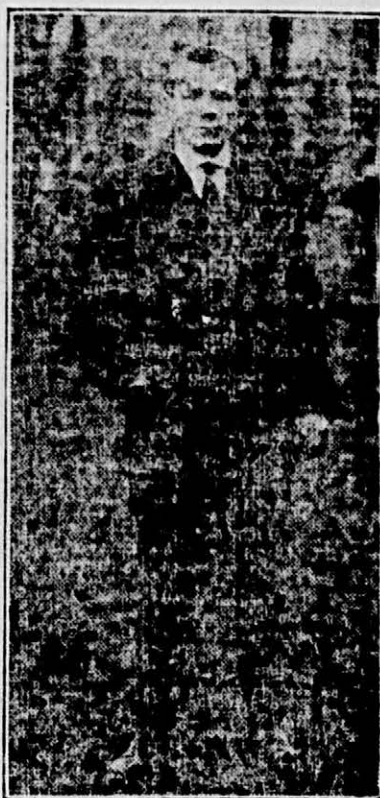

FABULOUS FRIVOLITY EVEN AT OLD AGE

Historic Arts Building Sacrifices Old Time "Respectability" to Vainglory.

Marvel of marvels, the Arts Building shines resplendent, externally at least, in a coat of new paint. These certainly are momentous days. As we watched our benefactors, white overalled and bedabbed, boldly obliterating the blemishes and scars of a century, we were fearful within ourselves lest at any moment such acts of sacrilege might bring down dire calamity. But no; the work went on apace. Occasionally a learned professor in deep mental abstraction hastened up with the inevitable pile of books on his arm, almost collided with the ladder, turned aside to pass under, then abruptly and with a start wheeled about and passed around. We may boast to the contrary, but the fact remains that we are still to a considerable extent the slaves of mediaeval superstition.

As we note this almost revolutionary tendency on the part of the Arts Faculty to spend their substance, erstwhile so carefully conserved, in gratifying worldly vain glory, we must shake our heads in warning. That there is danger of sacrificing our dignity, dust and dinginess to attractiveness (Continued on page 2.)

WOUNDED IN LEG.

CAPT. A. F. ARGUE, Med. '14.

FORMER MED. '19 MAN IS REPORTED KILLED

Recently sad news came to Kentville, Nova Scotia, when Mrs. Gerald Lechmere Ward received a cable from the British Admiralty, stating that her eldest son, Surgeon-Probationer N. Claude Ward, R.N.V.R., had been killed on September 12th, 1918, at the age of 21 years.

After a successful medical course of one year at Dalhousie University, and three years at McGill with the class of Med. '19, he carried on the traditions of his family and race and volunteered for the British Naval Service, and was appointed surgeon to a destroyer. His father fought in the South African War and his grandfather was a captain in the British army, and for generations his ancestors have held commissions in the Imperial army and navy. Besides his mother, he left to mourn their loss, Ernestine, wife of Harold M. Chase, Barrister, Evangeline, sisters, and one brother, Reginald, in the 10th Siege Battery, and many relatives and friends.

In quiet courage, chivalry, gentleness and general quality of character, he was a fine example of the Anglo-Saxon spirit.

"CANADA"

The following poem has been written especially for McGill Daily by Palmer Cox, author of the famous Brownie Stories. The writer is now in his seventy-fifth year, but sound enough in heart, wind and limb to go over the top, as his father before him did at Lundy's Lane and Niagara.

Born at Granby, Quebec, Mr. Cox has probably spent more hours fishing on Brome Lake than any man in Canada, dead or alive, and he is still engaged in playing the sport of his boyhood there.

CANADA.

By Palmer Cox.

(Written for McGill Daily.)

O Canada, oft robed in white
Though long unknown afar,
Thy glory blazes forth to-night,
Like Caesar's northern star.

The fitful nations shift their place
Mid people weak of mind,
But truly fixed, you show your face
Without a change outlined.

Land of the maple, spruce and pine,
The beaver, lynx and bear,
Though calm and modest in your line,
When wanting, you are there.

The home of truth, and patient tone,
And love that comes to stay
Where secret daggers are unknown
You hold your peaceful sway.

But when the vengeful blade must rise,
To deal the well-earned blow,
It will not pause, till writhing lies
The hell-doomed dragon foe.

MCGILL MEN IN TANK BN. FULL OF PEP

Form Society to Keep Old Spirit Alive.

"THE MCGILL TANKERS."

Pte. "Bill" Kearns is President; R. Herring, Arts '18, Representative to McGill Daily

The following letter to the Editor of McGill Daily was received during the enforced holiday of the past few weeks and it will, we are sure, be gratifying to the students of McGill who are continuing their courses of study here to find that their comrades overseas are desirous of keeping in close touch with the University and its activities.

It will be remembered that the Tank Battalion which was recruited here last spring contained one company composed almost exclusively of McGill men and their friends, and that the unit before leaving for England created a most favorable impression in the minds of the authorities and the public alike for smartness and discipline.

Sherford Bridge Camp.

Friday, Oct. 25th, 1918.

The Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—Now that the University has once again opened its doors and the various societies commencing to carry out their regular activities, we, the graduates and undergraduates of "Old McGill," serving with the First Canadian Tank Battalion, wishing to keep in as close touch as possible with the college, gathered together one evening in Bovington Camp and there organized our own society, Private William Kearns, Science '19, acting as chairman, and Private Frank Bowles, Law '18, as secretary. The meeting, impromptu as it was, proved a great success, there being about forty present, all displaying the greatest enthusiasm. Private Kearns explained the object of the meeting and immediately called for nominations for the several offices.

The elections resulted in Private Kearns being elected president; Corporal William Taylor, Theology '18, vice-president, and Private Frank Bowles as secretary. Representatives were then elected from the various Faculties: John Purcell, Arts '18, for Arts, Law and Theology; Private Leonard Ereaux, Medicine '22, and Corporal Leslie Code, Science '19, for Science.

President Kearns then asked for suggestions for a name for the Society, and after considerable discussion it was decided to call it the "McGill Tankers." Letters dealing with the Battalion's activities were to be (Continued on page 4.)

PROMINENT ENGLISH EDUCATIONALISTS

Pay Visit to McGill in the Interests of Closer Co-operation.

The British Universities Mission which recently arrived in the United States in response to an invitation on the part of the Council of National Defence, diverted their tour sufficiently to enable them to spend a few days visiting the principal Canadian university cities. Unfortunately, owing to the abnormal conditions created by the influenza epidemic, McGill was obliged to welcome the visitors with closed and silent halls. The circumstances under which the Mission inspected Laval University, Toronto University and other institutions were similar to those which prevailed at McGill—all academic activity was suspended.

The British Universities Mission visits America with the ambition "to inquire into the best means of procuring closer co-operation between British and American educational institutions," and by this means strengthening the bonds of sympathy which now unite the English-speaking world. To this end it is the purpose of the Mission to study educational conditions and requirements in America, with a view to arranging a broader (Continued on page 2.)

VALUABLE TIME LOST

The powers that be have decreed that McGill shall remain closed for another week. In the face of this decision we, in our humble capacity, have only one course to follow.

The influenza epidemic has meant a very serious interruption of our academic work even before it had actually been commenced. The loss of time is to be made up we have not heard but certainly either the session must be extended beyond the first of May or else the work before us will have to be greatly concentrated. As for the latter method of solving the problem we are inclined to doubt its practicability. True there is one other way of gaining a week or so in this term and that is by cutting down the Christmas Holidays though the advisability of pursuing such a course may be seriously questioned. Christmas Holidays shorter than the customary ten days would not make it possible for students who live at any considerable distance from Montreal to spend the holiday at home.

Possibly even a greater objection to encroaching upon the Christmas Holidays is the fact that it is doubtful whether one long uninterrupted term would secure the greatest efficiency in the end. In short it is too much to expect that the whole session's work can justly and satisfactorily be crammed into one long interrupted term.

It seems that the only practical solution to the problem is the extension of the session and even to this there are serious objections. Men who have positions awaiting them in the Spring will regard any such arrangement with a certain amount of disfavour. Nevertheless the problem is on the whole session so that it may it is in any case largely a matter of properly planning the work of the whole session so that it may be accomplished with the greatest possible expediency and with a minimum sacrifice of efficiency.

"PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES"

Echoes from France carry back to us the strains of that soldier ditty, "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile." Writers say that no other song is so popular among the English speaking fighters. The reason why it jumps so readily to the tongue of the campaigner in foreign lands is because it meets one of his most piquant needs.

A soldier must have something to bolster him up. Not that his courage or his determination waver in the slightest degree; it is his spirit that droops under exacting conditions of his daily existence. He needs jollying.

His life is restricted until he is concerned almost entirely with the ordinary matters of living. He has nothing to distract his interest from petty discomforts, no luxury to counteract slight grievances.

As a result the soldier is very apt to fall into a state of pessimism which transforms every petty obstacle or discomfort into a mountain of ill-luck.

Pack up your troubles. Make the best of things. Take inconveniences as a matter of course, if you must, and look ahead. When you seem overwhelmed, do your best, and you'll get ahead. Smile, boys, it's the style.

and more comprehensive system of post-graduate study which will be of common benefit to graduates of Canadian, American and English graduates.

The British Universities Mission has a distinguished personnel. Of the seven members which comprise it, the first is Dr. Arthur Everett Shipley, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, Master of Christ's College and Reader in Zoology. Dr. Shipley is a friend of Dr. J. C. Adams, of the Medical Faculty of McGill University, and is by no means a stranger at McGill.

The other members of the Mission are of like prominence. Two are noted lady educationalists, Miss Caroline Spurgeon, Professor of English Literature at Bedford College, University of London, and Miss Rose Sidgwick, Lecturer on Ancient History, University of Birmingham.

ness, sanitation and commonsense we know but too well. Let those, therefore, who would lust after the praise and approval of men be cautious and regard graduation, lest the soul of Discord raise the rising wind."

But this attack upon the exterior of the hitherto highly "respectable" Arts building is by no means the first outrage to which our ancient edifice has recently been subjected. For even before this latter attack was premeditated, our worthy administrators have so far yielded to man's vulgar desire for worldly comfort as to actually "renovate" the Arts smoking room. This historic sanctum, which now so dazzles the eyes with its glaring gorgeousness, surely marks the dawn of a new era for the Arts students.

Needless to say, we are eagerly awaiting the next evidence of this frivolity.

KILLED IN ACTION.

Hodgson, Sergt. S. J.—Sergt. Sydney James Hodgson, Arts '19, who was hardly 18 years of age when he joined the 66th Battery in 1916, was killed in action on September 27th, advised by his father, Arthur K. Hodgson, 467 Strathcona Ave., Westmount, estate.

Sergt. Hodgson, an only son, was born in Montreal, was educated at Westmount High School, and was president of First Year Arts at McGill. In the summer of 1916 he joined the 66th Battery and went to France in August of that year. He had seen fourteen months' active service and had escaped previous wounding. He would have been twenty-one years of age in March next. His father recently received word that his son had been recommended for a commission.

McDiarmid, Major B.—Many students of recent years will learn with regret of the death in action in the recent heavy fighting of Captain and Acting Major Benjamin McDiarmid, Arts '14, of the Alberta Regiment.

Major McDiarmid, whose home was in Entwistle, Alberta, was a most popular undergraduate during his college course, taking a prominent part in the Mock Parliament, the Arts Undergraduates' Society, and other student organizations. In 1916 he enlisted as a Lieutenant in the West and had risen to the acting rank of major before meeting his death before Cambrai.

Pulford, Capt. F. M.—Captain Frederick Milne Pulford, a past student of McGill, who enlisted as a private in a second division Winnipeg battalion is reported killed in action on October 1. He won his commission after long service in the field and recently was promoted to the acting rank of captain. His home was in Winnipeg.

Shanks, Lieut. D. A.—Lieut. Daniel Albert Shanks, Science '10, youngest son of Dr. James C. Shanks, Med. '81, Howick, Que., was reported missing on September 21, after serving with the Royal Air Force since July, 1917, and a month later was reported dead. Lieut. Shanks was born in 1888, and attended the Montreal High School, graduating from McGill in 1910, when he was offered the chair of Physics and Engineering at Tanguish Engineering College. After completing two years he resigned and returned to Canada to enlist in the R. A. F. He was decorated by the Chinese Government for distinguished services before leaving China and was the recipient of a handsome illuminated address from his pupils.

Capt. George Shanks, Med. '08, his brother, was at one time medical superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital, and is at present serving with the Indian Medical Service in Mesopotamia.

Smith, Lieut. Walter C.—Lieut. Walter C. Smith, Science '16, of the Canadian Field Artillery, is officially reported killed in action on September 30. He was 23 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith, 26 Beely street, St. John, N.B. In 1915 he enlisted as a gunner in the 2nd Canadian Divisional Ammunition Column, and won promotion to the commissioned ranks overseas. Besides his parents, Lieut. Smith is survived by three brothers, one of whom, Percy G., is with a siege battery in France. The others are H. Lester Smith, barrister, in Albert Co., N.B., and Reid J., Bank of Nova Scotia clerk at Yarmouth, N.S. Lucy, a sister, is at Acadia College.

Stewart, Capt. William.—Captain "Will" Stewart, Arts '05, Law '08, killed in action on October 20, was one of the best known of the younger generation of McGill graduates. He was in practice in Montreal when he joined the 148th Battalion in 1916, and had previously been a company officer in the McGill C. O. T. C. Battalion, of which he was one of the original officers. Undergraduates found in him a warm friend and the Graduates Society mourns one of its keenest members. He had served on the Headquarters' Staff for some time.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Calder, Capt. W. M.—A telegram has been received from Ottawa by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Calder, Lachute, informing them that their second son, Honorary Captain and Quartermaster William McCre Calder, Arts '18, of the Canadian Forestry Service, France, was accidentally killed on November 1st.

The late Captain Calder was born in Lachute 24 years ago, and received his education at Lachute Academy, graduating in 1912. After an interval he commenced further studies at McGill in the autumn of 1914, and when the first universities company was formed in April, 1915, to reinforce the P.P.C.L.I., he offered his services, and went overseas as a member of that unit. After several months' active service he became ill with appendicitis, was operated upon and removed to England, where he spent a number of months in various hospitals, and after recovering was for a time in one of the military offices in England. In September, 1916, when the 242nd Forestry Battalion was being formed, he returned to Canada to receive a commission as lieutenant in that regiment, and as such re-crossed to England in November, and a short time later went to France and had since then been a valued member of the Forestry service.

DIED.

Conroy, Cadet Paul S.—Cadet Paul Servillan Conroy, Law '13, who died at the base hospital, Toronto, on October 11, of influenza-pneumonia, was 28 years old, the son of Thomas Conroy, 48 St. Louis Square, Montreal. He went to Toronto early in August to train in the aviation corps. His illness lasted only a few days, death resulting. Mr. Conroy was educated at Loyola College, where he was graduated with the degree of B.A. in 1910. Entering McGill he was graduated in 1913 with the degree of B.C.L. Mr. Conroy was a member of the firm of Stuart Cox and McKenna, later practicing his profession under his own name.

Holbrook, Lieut. C. E.—Four days after his marriage to Miss Kathleen Stuart Cains, daughter of Mr. Fred L. Cains, Montreal, Lieut. Charles E. Holbrook, Med. '08, of the United States Medical Reserve Corps, passed away in the Ross Memorial pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, on October 18, of influenza-pneumonia. Dr. Holbrook was formerly of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and recently received his commission as a Lieutenant in the United States Medical Reserve Corps. He expected to leave shortly for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

This is No. 580—or the newest design from the studios of the Semi-ready tailoring shops in Montreal. It is a business suit, with a clear-cut waist seam and a back of six pieces—with the slash bottom pockets and flapless breast pocket.

Here is the Albertan—a smart coat which will be worn in all the centres of fashion. It is one of the quietest smart coats shown in the Semi-ready Portfolio of Fashion for the fall and winter season.
The R. J. Tooke Stores sell no other clothes than pure Semi-ready Tailoring. You can depend on getting the smart styles in their shops.

The above list represents the known toll that has been taken of McGill's graduates and past students by the epidemic of Spanish Influenza which has been felt so broadcast in America since "McGill Daily" last appeared. Naturally, graduates in Medicine are in the majority.

Brown, Dr. Gordon T.—After a brief illness from pneumonia, Dr. Gordon T. Brown, Med. '06, second son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Brown, Danville, P.Q., died there on October 7. He was born in Danville in 1882, and received his education at Danville Academy and McGill, graduating with honors in 1906. He took post-graduate work at Harvard and McGill and also spent a year in hospital training in the United States. He began practicing in the West and after a few years there came to Montreal, and from Montreal to Danville, where he carried on his practice for over three years.

Barry, Dr. Joseph L.—The death occurred, on October 11, at St. Francis General Hospital, Smith's Falls, of Dr. Joseph Leonard Barry. He died of pneumonia, predisposed by Spanish Influenza. He was a native of Dundas county, Ontario, and was educated at the common schools, the Morrisburg High School and McGill. He graduated from that institution in medicine in 1908. He was in practice at St. Humboldt, Sask., and was east on a visit. He is survived by his wife. He was a Catholic in religion. Three of his sisters are members of the House of Providence Community, Kingston.

Cook, Geoffrey H.—Geoffrey H. Cook, Arts '11, who died at Montreal on October 11, was a son of the late Mr. William Cook, K.C., of Quebec, where he was born on October 12th, 1888. He was educated at McGill, from which he obtained the degree of B.A. in 1911. He later studied law at the University of Laval, in Quebec, obtaining the degree of doctor of laws in 1914, with honors. Upon being admitted to the practice of the notarial profession, he came to Montreal and joined the firm of W. de M. and H. M. Marler, with which firm he was practicing his profession at the time of his death. On the 11th of September last, Mr. Cook was married to Miss Anne Watson Cameron, the eldest daughter of Mr. Charles S. Cameron, secretary-treasurer of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, of Sydney, N.S.

Cronk, Francis J.—Francis Joseph Cronk, M. Sc., Sci. '14, Assistant Professor of Railway Engineering at McGill University and associate member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, who died on October 12, was born in Montreal 31 years ago. He received his professional training at McGill, receiving his degree in Civil Engineering in 1914. Though a young man, Professor Cronk had acquired a wide experience in various engineering positions on Canadian railways from coast to coast, and in recognition of his abilities he had been, early in the year, appointed to the position of assistant professor of Railway Engineering at McGill, and given charge of this branch under the Department of Civil Engineering. On October 3rd he was forced through illness to leave his classes, and from that day was confined to his bed. Influenza developed its most alarming symptoms, and he was removed to the Western Hospital, where he died. Professor Cronk leaves a widow and one child.

Gale, Dr. W. P.—Dr. Withall P. Gale, Med. '03, who died at Quebec on October 21 of influenza-pneumonia, was for several years attached to the C.P.R. steamship services. The late Dr. Gale had a circle of friends and acquaintances enjoyed by few. These were gained during his private life, during his service as medical officer on the "Empress of Britain" and on the ill-fated "Missanabie," and during the globe-trotting which included a trip around the world on the "Empress of Russia." Dr. Gale crossed the Atlantic something like three hundred times, and on reaching the other side it was frequently his practice to obtain leave of absence, which he spent in touring Europe, Asia and northern Africa. A year ago Dr. Gale left the service of the C.P.R., and took over a large part of the practice of his father, who is also a doctor, in Quebec, his birthplace. He was also associated professionally with a brother, Dr. Ernest Gale.

Gourlay, Dr. Thomas A.—Dr. Thomas A. Gourlay, Med. '07, who died at Cayuga, Ont., on October 21, was untiring in his efforts to fight the disease, but suffering as he was from a severe cold, he went to bed on Saturday, Oct. 12, and pneumonia quickly developed. During the following week his wife and three of his family also became ill, and he gradually became worse, passing quietly to his rest on Monday, October 21. The late Dr. Gourlay was a clever, well-read man, and a most successful physician and surgeon. He was a kind father and husband, and an enterprising citizen. He was a member of the Masonic lodge, a member of the bowling club, and also a member of the board of education. He was a strong Liberal in politics, and in religion a Presbyterian. He was born in Eganville, Ont., and studied medicine at McGill. After practicing successfully in Killaloe, Ont., for some years, he went to Cayuga about eleven years ago. He soon built up a large practice. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Isabelle Halliday, of Kingston, and six young sons and one daughter.

Groves, Dr. Osler M.—Dr. Osler M. Groves, of Carp, one of the most prominent physicians of Carleton County, Ont., died at his home on October 9, after a very brief illness. The late Dr. Groves was the son of the late Dr. G. H. Groves and was 33 years of age. He was coroner for Carleton County, and acted as medical health officer for three or four townships. Since the outbreak of the war he has been very active in patriotic work, and was president of the Carp branch of the Red Cross and acted as organizer for the Victory Loan drive in his district last year, and had much to do with its ultimate success. He was a graduate of McGill, and had taken a post-graduate course in Europe. He is survived by his widow and was an active member of the South March Masonic Order.

Halpenny, Dr. William.—Dr. William Halpenny, Med. '17, a member of the house staff of the Royal Victoria Hospital, died early on the morning of October 11th. Dr. Halpenny came from Renfrew County, Ont., and was a well-known young graduate. A year ago he lost his leg in a collision between an ambulance in which he was riding and a street car.

Lambert, Dr. E. M.—Dr. E. M. Lambert, Med. '01, one of Ottawa's most prominent medical men, succumbed to an attack of pleuro-pneumonia on October 20th. He had only been ailing a few days. Dr. Lambert was the son of Mr. F. X. Lambert, a retired civil servant, and was born in Ottawa 51 years ago. He got his early training at Ottawa University, and later studied medicine at McGill. After graduating from McGill he went to Europe, where he studied at London, Paris, Vienna, and Berlin.

Michaud, Dr. J. N.—Dr. J. Napoleon Michaud, Med. '06, who died at Bathurst, N.B., on October 20, was a native of Campbellton, N.B., where he received his early education. He continued his studies at St. Joseph's College, Mehermacook, and took his medical course at McGill. Going to Bathurst in 1906, he began the practice of his profession and the following year he was married to Miss Hectorine, daughter of the late Mr. H. G. Poirier and Mrs. Poirier, who died about seven years ago. He afterwards married Mrs. Reginald McDonald, formerly Miss Elizabeth Mullins. In town affairs Dr. Michaud had occupied the important office of Mayor for two years. It was during his tenure of office that Bathurst made the greatest strides in its history, the pulp mill was erected and the water and sewerage systems installed. Since vacating the mayor's chair, Dr. Michaud's activities had found expression in his efforts to stimulate interest in the schools of the town of which he was a trustee. Besides being ever assiduous to the routine duties of that office, he inaugurated a lengthy annual prize list for the pupils of the schools of the town, which has already borne rich fruit. As a member of several fraternal societies, too, Dr. Michaud found time from his many other duties to make his influence felt. He had been president of the C. M. B. A., and the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Morin, Dr. Gaston.—Dr. Gaston Morin, Med. '08, eye, ear and nose specialist, 105 Ridgway Street, Ottawa, one of the most prominent young physicians in the Capital, died on October 15, in a local hospital, where he was ill for the past ten days. Death was due to pneumonia, which followed an attack of influenza. The late Dr. Morin was in his 34th year. He had been practicing in Ottawa for the past four years. He was born in St. Hyacinthe, Que., a son of Mr. Joseph Morin, auditor-general in the Quebec Provincial Government, and at present residing in Quebec. He received his early education in St. Hyacinthe and was a graduate both of McGill and Laval Universities. After receiving his diplomas from these universities, he spent about six years studying in Europe and had experience in hospitals in London, England, Paris, Switzerland, Belgium, and in several cities in Germany, including Berlin just before coming to Ottawa to practice there, he was head of the oculist and aurist branch of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

Pearce, Dr. Leslie G.—A victim of the dread Spanish influenza, contracted in the discharge of his duty, Dr. Leslie G. Pearce, Med. '14, of Brantford, Ont., died there on October 5th. Dr. Pearce was an ear and throat specialist in that city and was ill only a week.

Born in Brantford, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pearce, 211 Wellington street, that city, and was gold medalist of his class at McGill. He commenced to practice in Brantford a comparatively short time ago and by his exceptional skill and urbanity had soon built up a very large clientele. He was an active member of Zion Church, being a teacher of the Sunday School and he and his wife were Presbyterian missionary delegates expecting in the not distant future to take up that work. A widow and two children are left to mourn his loss. He has two brothers in the army, one Major Pearce, of Ottawa, invalided home after wounds. Another brother is manager of the Bank of Hamilton in Winnipeg. He was a prominent Mason, having attained the 30th degree.

Plaisted, Miss G. M.—A McGill graduate died in Ottawa on October 16th, in the person of Miss Gertrude M. Plaisted, Arts '08. Miss Plaisted, who was born at River Desert, Que., was the daughter of the late Rev. Henry Plaisted, from 1899 to 1915 rector of Dunham, Que. Mr. Plaisted, until his death in 1917, was rector of Itherville. Miss Plaisted was educated at Dunham Ladies' College and at McGill, graduating from the latter institution in 1908. For the following five years she was assistant principal of Lachute

Academy, later held a similar position at Oshawa, and then entered the Civil Service at Ottawa.

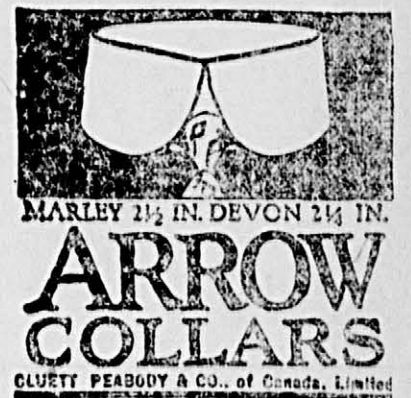

Richards, Dr. B. A.—The death of Dr. Bradford A. Richards, Med. '01, took place in Rochester, N.Y., on October 22nd, of pneumonia. He was the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Richards, of Yarmouth, N.S. He was in Yarmouth for three weeks following the death of his father, who died five weeks ago. Dr. Richards was a graduate of McGill, and later of New York hospitals. He went to Rochester about ten years ago. There he had been doing specialist work and was an acknowledged authority in his profession. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Scott, Dr. J. B.—After a brief illness, Dr. John Barrett Scott, Med. '09, second son of the late Rev. M. H. and Mrs. Scott, of Hull, Que., died on October 29th, at his residence at Moose Jaw, Sask. He was 31 years of age. Only two weeks ago, his brother, Gunter Herbert Scott, was reported killed in action. Besides his mother, he is survived by two brothers.

Stevenson, Bayne H.—Bayne Hamilton Stevenson, post-student, only surviving son of T. J. Stevenson, 222 Bishop street, died at Savannah, Ga., on October 16th. Mr. Stevenson was 27 years of age and received his early education at Bishop Ridley College and McGill. Lately being engaged on the staff of the Foundation Co., constructing the Nickel Reduction Plant at Port Colborne, on the completion of which last February, he went with his company to Savannah, Ga., where they built a ship yard and were constructing many trawlers for the French Government. He had developed business qualities of a high order and was always very popular. Last January he was married to Florence, daughter of the late Captain Arthur and Mrs. McMaugh, of King St., St. Catharines, Ont.

Tilley, Dr. A. R.—Dr. Alexander Reid Tilley, one of the leading young physicians of Ottawa, died in St. Luke's Hospital there on October 13, after a week's illness. He was 33 years of age. He leaves a widow, who before her marriage was Miss Leitch, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Leitch and Mrs. Leitch, of Toronto, a young son, Alexander Reid, aged 6 years. The late Dr. Tilley was born in Hamilton and lived in Ottawa practically his entire life. He was educated at the Ottawa Collegiate Institute and spent a year in arts at McMaster University, Toronto. He then went to McGill, and studied medicine, graduating in 1906. His first year out of college was spent as house surgeon of the Protestant General hospital, Ottawa. Since then he has practised his profession in Hintonburg. He was a member of Dalhousie Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and also of Rosemount L.O.L., No. 126. He also belonged to the Oddfellows. He held the rank of major in the Canadian Army Medical Corps and spent the summers of 1916 and 1917 at Petawawa Camp with No. 2 Field Ambulance.

STUDENT SEC'Y WAS VICTIM OF THE INFLUENZA

Howard Melville Died After a Short Illness.

EIGHT YEARS SECRETARY.

Was Great Assistance to the Students in Managing College Affairs.

The recent epidemic of Spanish Influenza which has taken such a heavy toll in the city did not spare the University. Howard Melville, the popular secretary of the Students' Society, died on Sunday, October 19th, after an illness of about two weeks.

Although Melville had been sick for some time, his death came as a great surprise to most of his friends and associates about college, for only a few days previous the doctors had reported that he was progressing favorably and would soon be about again. As so often happens in the case of influenza, however, the patient had a relapse, which rapidly proved fatal.

Since he first entered upon his work in connection with the affairs of the undergraduate body, eight years ago, Melville has always been an energetic and willing worker for the welfare of the students. He was installed as secretary of the Students' Society on the advice of Major G. MacDonald and Mr. G. Curry, of the Advisory Board of the Union. At the time of his coming, the affairs of the students were in a most confused state, and the outlook was hardly cheery. In spite of this handicap, matters, under his guidance, became steadily better, until, at the present time, the Society has amassed a considerable sum of money in reserve, out of which the Students' Council was able to vote $5,000.00 to last year's Victory Loan.

In addition to being secretary of the Students' Society, Howard Melville held the office of secretary-treasurer of "McGill Daily," and looked after the finances of the college publication with great success. He was also secretary of the Hockey Club, and an important factor in the success of that body in recent years. As secretary of the McGill Union, he spent many hours of hard work in his office there, and was a familiar figure to all the students that will be sorely missed in the future.

During the hockey season last year he occupied the post of secretary of the Montreal City Hockey League, and of the Eastern Hockey Association, and did much to render amateur hockey free from any taint of professionalism.

Mr. Melville is survived by his wife and a baby girl, three years old. His father, R. Melville, is secretary of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

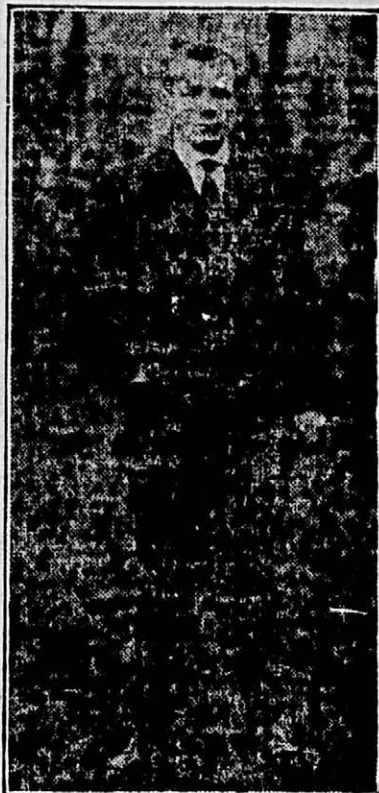

FABULOUS FRIVOLITY EVEN AT OLD AGE

Historic Arts Building Sacrifices Old Time "Respectability" to Vainglory.

Marvel of marvels, the Arts Building shines resplendent, externally at least, in a coat of new paint. These certainly are momentous days. As we watched our benefactors, white overalled and bedabbed, boldly obliterating the blemishes and scars of a century, we were fearful within ourselves lest at any moment such acts of sacrilege might bring down dire calamity. But no; the work went on apace. Occasionally a learned professor in deep mental abstraction hastened up with the inevitable pile of books on his arm, almost collided with the ladder, turned aside to pass under, then abruptly and with a start wheeled about and passed around. We may boast to the contrary, but the fact remains that we are still to a considerable extent the slaves of mediaeval superstition.

As we note this almost revolutionary tendency on the part of the Arts Faculty to spend their substance, erstwhile so carefully conserved, in gratifying worldly vain glory, we must shake our heads in warning. That there is danger of sacrificing our dignity, dust and dinginess to attractiveness (Continued on page 2.)

WOUNDED IN LEG.

CAPT. A. F. ARGUE, M.D. '14.

FORMER MED. '19 MAN IS REPORTED KILLED

Recently sad news came to Kentville, Nova Scotia, when Mrs. Gerald Lechmere Ward received a cable from the British Admiralty, stating that her eldest son, Surgeon-Probationer N. Claude Ward, R.N.V.R., had been killed on September 12th, 1918, at the age of 21 years.

After a successful medical course of one year at Dalhousie University, and three years at McGill with the class of Med. '19, he carried on the traditions of his family and race and volunteered for the British Naval Service, and was appointed surgeon to a destroyer. His father fought in the South African War and his grandfather was a captain in the British army, and for generations his ancestors have held commissions in the Imperial army and navy. Besides his mother, he left to mourn their loss, Ernestine, wife of Harold M. Chase, Barrister, Evangelist, sisters, and one brother, Reginald, in the 10th Siege Battery, and many relatives and friends.

In quiet courage, chivalry, gentleness and general quality of character, he was a fine example of the Anglo-Saxon spirit.

"CANADA."

The following poem has been written especially for McGill Daily by Palmer Cox, author of the famous Brownie Stories. The writer is now in his seventy-fifth year, but sound enough in heart, wind and limb to go over the top, as his father before him did at Lundy's Lane and Niagara.

Born at Granby, Quebec, Mr. Cox has probably spent more hours fishing on Brome Lake than any man in Canada, dead or alive, and he is still engaged in playing the sport of his boyhood there.

CANADA.

By Palmer Cox.

(Written for McGill Daily.)

O Canada, oft robed in white
Though long unknown afar,
Thy glory blazes forth to-night,
Like Caesar's northern star.

The fitful nations shift their place
Mid people weak of mind,
But truly fixed, you show your face
Without a change outlined.

Land of the maple, spruce and pine,
The beaver, lynx and bear,
Though calm and modest in your line,
When wanting, you are there.

The home of truth, and patient tone,
And love that comes to stay
Where secret daggers are unknown
You hold your peaceful sway.

But when the vengeful blade must rise,
To deal the well-earned blow,
It will not pause, till writhing lies
The hell-doomed dragon foe.

MCGILL MEN IN TANK BN. FULL OF PEP

Form Society to Keep Old Spirit Alive.

"THE MCGILL TANKERS."

Pte. "Bill" Kearns is President; R. Herring, Arts '18, Representative to McGill Daily

The following letter to the Editor of McGill Daily was received during the enforced holiday of the past few weeks and it will, we are sure, be gratifying to the students of McGill who are continuing their courses of study here to find that their comrades overseas are desirous of keeping in close touch with the University and its activities.

It will be remembered that the Tank Battalion which was recruited here last spring contained one company composed almost exclusively of McGill men and their friends, and that the unit before leaving for England created a most favorable impression in the minds of the authorities and the public alike for smartness and discipline.

Sherford Bridge Camp,

Friday, Oct. 25th, 1918.

The Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—Now that the University has once again opened its doors and the various societies commencing to carry out their regular activities, we, the graduates and undergraduates of "Old McGill," serving with the First Canadian Tank Battalion, wishing to keep in as close touch as possible with the college, gathered together one evening in Boyington Camp and there organized our own society, Private William Kearns, Science '19, acting as chairman, and Private Frank Bowles, Law '18, as secretary. The meeting, impromptu as it was, proved a great success, there being about forty present, all displaying the greatest enthusiasm. Private Kearns explained the object of the meeting and immediately called for nominations for the several offices.

The elections resulted in Private Kearns being elected president; Corporal William Taylor, Theology '18, vice-president, and Private Frank Bowles as secretary. Representatives were then elected from the various Faculties: John Purcell, Arts '18, for Arts, Law and Theology; Private Leonard Ercan, Medicine '22, and Corporal Leslie Code, Science '19, for Science.

President Kearns then asked for suggestions for a name for the Society, and after considerable discussion it was decided to call it the "McGill Tankers." Letters dealing with the Battalion's activities were to be (Continued on page 4.)

Pay Visit to McGill in the Interests of Closer Co-operation.

The British Universities Mission which recently arrived in the United States in response to an invitation on the part of the Council of National Defence, diverted their tour sufficiently to enable them to spend a few days visiting the principal Canadian university cities. Unfortunately, owing to the abnormal conditions created by the influenza epidemic, McGill was obliged to welcome the visitors with closed and silent halls. The circumstances under which the Mission inspected Laval University, Toronto University and other institutions were similar to those which prevailed at McGill—all academic activity was suspended.

The British Universities Mission visits America with the ambition "to inquire into the best means of procuring closer co-operation between British and American educational institutions," and by this means strengthening the bonds of sympathy which now unite the English-speaking world. To this end it is the purpose of the Mission to study educational conditions and requirements in America, with a view to arranging a broader (Continued on page 2.)

VALUABLE TIME LOST

The powers that be have decreed that McGill shall remain closed for another week. In the face of this decision we, in our humble capacity, have only one course to follow.

The influenza epidemic has meant a very serious interruption of our academic work even before it had actually been commenced. The loss of time is to be made up we have not heard but certainly either the session must be extended beyond the first of May or else the work before us will have to be greatly concentrated. As for the latter method of solving the problem we are inclined to doubt its practicability. True there is one other way of gaining a week or so in this term and that is by cutting down the Christmas Holidays though the advisability of pursuing such a course may be seriously questioned. Christmas Holidays shorter than the customary ten days would not make it possible for students who live at any considerable distance from Montreal to spend the holiday at home.

Possibly even a greater objection to encroaching upon the Christmas Holidays is the fact that it is doubtful whether one long uninterrupted term would secure the greatest efficiency in the end. In short it is too much to expect that the whole session's work can justly and satisfactorily be crammed into one long interrupted term.

It seems that the only practical solution to the problem is the extension of the session and even to this there are serious objections. Men who have positions awaiting them in the Spring will regard any such arrangement with a certain amount of disfavour. Nevertheless the problem is on the whole session so that it may it is in any case largely a matter of properly planning the work of the whole session so that it may be accomplished with the greatest possible expediency and with a minimum sacrifice of efficiency.

"PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES"

Echoes from France carry back to us the strains of that soldier ditty, "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile." Writers say that no other song is so popular among the English speaking fighters. The reason why it jumps so readily to the tongue of the campaigner in foreign lands is because it meets one of his most piquant needs.

A soldier must have something to bolster him up. Not that his courage or his determination waver in the slightest degree; it is his spirit that droops under exacting conditions of his daily existence. He needs jollying.

His life is restricted until he is concerned almost entirely with the ordinary matters of living. He has nothing to distract his interest from petty discomforts, no luxury to counteract slight grievances.

As a result the soldier is very apt to fall into a state of pessimism which transforms every petty obstacle or discomfort into a mountain of ill-luck.

Pack up your troubles. Make the best of things. Take inconveniences as a matter of course, if you must, and look ahead. When you seem overwhelmed, do your best, and you'll get ahead. Smile, boys, it's the style.

and more comprehensive system of post-graduate study which will be of common benefit to graduates of Canadian, American and English universities.

The British Universities Mission has a distinguished personnel. Of the seven members which comprise it, the first is Dr. Arthur Everett Shipley, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, Master of Christ's College and Reader in Zoology. Dr. Shipley is a friend of Dr. J. C. Adams, of the Medical Faculty of McGill University, and is by no means a stranger at McGill.

The other members of the Mission are of like prominence. Two are noted lady educationalists, Miss Caroline Spurgeon, Professor of English Literature at Bedford College, University of London, and Miss Rose Sidgwick, Lecturer on Ancient History, University of Birmingham.

ness, sanitation and common sense we know but too well. Let those, therefore, who would lust after the praise and approval of men be cautious and "regard graduation, lest the soul of Discord raise the rising wind."

But this attack upon the exterior of the hitherto highly "respectable" Arts building is by no means the first outrage to which our ancient edifice has recently been subjected. For even before this latter attack was premeditated, our worthy administrators have so far yielded to man's vulgar desire for worldly comfort as to actually "renovate" the Arts smoking room. This historic sanctum, which now so dazzles the eyes with its glaring gorgeousness, surely marks the dawn of

KILLED IN ACTION.

Hodgson, Sergt. S. J.—Sergt. Sydney James Hodgson, Arts '19, who was hardly 18 years of age when he joined the 66th Battery in 1916, was killed in action on September 27th, advice received by his father, Arthur K. Hodgson, 467 Strathcona Ave., Westmount, estate. Sergt. Hodgson, an only son, was born in Montreal, was educated at Westmount High School, and was president of First Year Arts at McGill. In the summer of 1916 he joined the 66th Battery and went to France in August of that year. He had seen fourteen months' active service and had escaped previous wounding. He would have been twenty-one years of age in March next. His father recently received word that his son had been recommended for a commission.

McDiarmid, Major R.—Many students of recent years will learn with regret of the death in action in the recent heavy fighting of Captain and Acting Major Benjamin McDiarmid, Arts '14, of the Alberta Regiment. Major McDiarmid, whose home was in Entwistle, Alberta, was a most popular undergraduate during his college course, taking a prominent part in the Mock Parliament, the Arts Undergraduates' Society, and other student organizations. In 1916 he enlisted as a Lieutenant in the West and had risen to the acting rank of major before meeting his death before Cambrai.

Pulford, Capt. F. M.—Captain Frederick Milne Pulford, a past student of McGill, who enlisted as a private in a second division Winnipeg battalion, is reported killed in action on October 1. He won his commission after long service in the field and recently was promoted to the acting rank of captain. His home was in Winnipeg.

Shanks, Lieut. D. A.—Lieut. Daniel Albert Shanks, Science '10, youngest son of Dr. James C. Shanks, Med. '81, Howick, Que., was reported missing on September 21, after serving with the Royal Air Force since July, 1917, and a month later was reported dead. Lieut. Shanks was born in 1888, and attended the Montreal High School, graduating from McGill in 1910, when he was offered the chair of Physics and Engineering at Tangshan Engineering College. After completing two years he resigned and returned to Canada to enlist in the R. A. F. He was decorated by the Chinese Government for distinguished services before leaving China and was the recipient of a handsome illuminated address from his pupils.

Capt. George Shanks, Med. '08, his brother, was at one time medical superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital, and is at present serving with the Indian Medical Service in Mesopotamia.

Smith, Lieut. Walter C.—Lieut. Walter C. Smith, Science '16, of the Canadian Field Artillery, is officially reported killed in action on September 30. He was 23 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith, 26 Beely street, St. John, N.B. In 1915 he enlisted as a gunner in the 2nd Canadian Divisional Ammunition Column, and won promotion to the commissioned ranks overseas. Besides his parents, Lieut. Smith is survived by three brothers, one of whom, Percy G., is with a siege battery in France. The others are H. Lester Smith, barrister, in Albert Co., N.B., and Reid J., Bank of Nova Scotia clerk at Yarmouth, N.S. Lucy, a sister, is at Acadia College.

Stewart, Capt. William.—Captain "Will" Stewart, Arts '05, Law '08, killed in action on October 20, was one of the best known of the younger generation of McGill graduates. He was in practice in Montreal when he joined the 148th Battalion in 1916, and had previously been a company officer in the McGill C. O. T. C. Battalion, of which he was one of the original officers. Undergraduates found in him a warm friend and the Graduates Society mourns one of its keenest members. He had served on the Headquarters' Staff for some time.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Calder, Capt. W. M.—A telegram has been received from Ottawa by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Calder, Lachute, informing them that their second son, Honorary Captain and Quartermaster William McDiarmid Calder, Arts '18, of the Canadian Forestry Service, France, was accidentally killed on November 1st.

The late Captain Calder was born in Lachute 24 years ago, and received his education at Lachute Academy, graduating in 1912. After an interval he commenced further studies at McGill in the autumn of 1914, and when the first universities company was formed in April, 1915, to reinforce the P.F.C.L.L., he offered his services, and went overseas as a member of that unit. After several months' active service he became ill with appendicitis, was operated upon and removed to England, where he spent a number of months in various hospitals, and after recovering was for a time in one of the military offices in England. In September, 1916, when the 242nd Forestry Battalion was being formed, he returned to Canada to receive a commission as Lieutenant in that regiment, and as such crossed to England in November, and a short time later went to France and had since then been a valued member of the Forestry Service.

DIED.

Conroy, Cadet Paul S.—Cadet Paul Servillan Conroy, Law '13, who died at the base hospital, Toronto, on October 11, of influenza-pneumonia, was 28 years old, the son of Thomas Conroy, 48 St. Louis Square, Montreal. He went to Toronto early in August to train in the aviation corps. His illness lasted only a few days, death resulting. Mr. Conroy was educated at Loyola College, where he was graduated with the degree of B.A. in 1910. Entering McGill he was graduated in 1913 with the degree of B.C.L. Mr. Conroy was a member of the firm of Stuart Cox and McKenna, later practicing his profession under his own name.

Holbrook, Lieut. C. E.—Four days after his marriage to Miss Kathleen Stuart Cains, daughter of Mrs. Fred. L. Cains, Montreal, Lieut. Charles E. Holbrook, Med. '08, of the United States Medical Reserve Corps, passed away in the Ross Memorial pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, on October 18, of influenza-pneumonia. Dr. Holbrook was formerly of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and recently received his commission as a Lieutenant in the United States Medical Reserve Corps. He expected to leave shortly for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

The above list represents the known toll that has been taken of McGill's graduates and past students by the epidemic of Spanish Influenza which has been felt so broadcast in America since "McGill Daily" last appeared. Naturally, graduates in Medicine are in the majority.

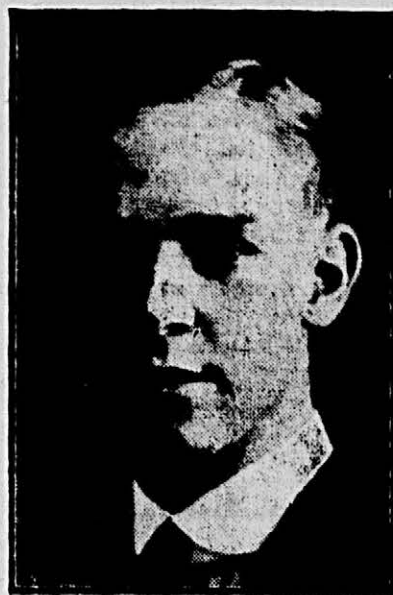

Brown, Dr. Gordon T.—After a brief illness from pneumonia, Dr. Gordon T. Brown, Med. '06, second son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Brown, Danville, P.Q., died there on October 7. He was born in Danville in 1882, and received his education at Danville Academy and McGill, graduating with honors in 1906. He took post-graduate work at Harvard and McGill and also spent a year in hospital training in the United States. He began practicing in the West and after a few years there came to Montreal, and from Montreal to Danville, where he carried on his practice for over three years.

Barry, Dr. Joseph L.—The death occurred, on October 11, at St. Francis General Hospital, Smith's Falls, of Dr. Joseph Leonard Barry. He died of pneumonia, predisposed by Spanish Influenza. He was a native of Dundas county, Ontario, and was educated at the common schools, the Morrisburg High School and McGill. He graduated from that institution in medicine in 1908. He was in practice at St. Huboldt, Sask., and was sent on a visit. He is survived by his wife. He was a Catholic in religion. Three of his sisters are members of the House of Providence Community, Kingston.

Cook, Geoffrey H.—Geoffrey H. Cook, Arts '11, who died at Montreal on October 11, was a son of the late Mr. William Cook, K.C., of Quebec, where he was born on October 12th, 1888. He was educated at McGill, from which he obtained the degree of B.A. in 1911. He later studied law at the University of Laval in Quebec, obtaining the degree of doctor of laws in 1914, with honors. Upon being admitted to the practice of the notarial profession, he came to Montreal and joined the firm of W. de M. and H. M. Marier, with which firm he was practicing his profession at the time of his death. On the 11th of September last, Mr. Cook was married to Miss Anne Watson Cameron, the eldest daughter of Mr. Charles S. Cameron, secretary-treasurer of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, of Sydney, N.S.

Cronk, Francis J.—Francis Joseph Cronk, M. Sc., Sci. '14, Assistant Professor of Railway Engineering at McGill University and associate member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, who died on October 12, was born in Montreal 31 years ago. He received his professional training at McGill, receiving his degree in Civil Engineering in 1914. Though a young man, Professor Cronk had acquired a wide experience in various engineering positions on Canadian railways from coast to coast, and in recognition of his abilities he had been, early in the year, appointed to the position of assistant professor of Railway Engineering at McGill, and given charge of this branch under the Department of Civil Engineering. On October 3rd he was forced through illness to leave his classes, and from that day was confined to his bed. Influenza developed its most alarming symptoms, and he was removed to the Western Hospital, where he died. Professor Cronk leaves a widow and one child.

Gale, Dr. W. P.—Dr. Withall P. Gale, Med. '03, who died at Quebec on October 21 of influenza-pneumonia, was for several years attached to the C.P.R. steamship services. The late Dr. Gale had a circle of friends and acquaintances enjoyed by but few. These were gained during his private life, during his service as medical officer on the "Empress of Britain" and on the ill-fated "Missanabie," and during the globe-trotting which included a trip around the world on the "Empress of Russia." Dr. Gale crossed the Atlantic something like three hundred times, and on reaching the other side it was frequently his practice to obtain leave of absence, which he spent in touring Europe, Asia and northern Africa. A year ago Dr. Gale left the service of the C.P.R., and took over a large part of the practice of his father, who is also a doctor, in Quebec, his birthplace. He was also associated professionally with a brother, Dr. Ernest Gale.

Gourlay, Dr. Thomas A.—Dr. Thomas A. Gourlay, Med. '07, who died at Cayuga, Ont., on October 21, was untiring in his efforts to fight the disease, but suffering as he was from a severe cold, he went to bed on Saturday, Oct. 12, and pneumonia quickly developed. During the following week his wife and three of his family also became ill, and he gradually became worse, passing quietly to his rest on Monday, October 21. The late Dr. Gourlay was a clever, well-read man, and a most successful physician and surgeon. He was a kind father and husband, and an enterprising citizen. He was a member of the Masonic lodge, a member of the bowling club, and also a member of the board of education. He was a strong Liberal in politics, and in religion a Presbyterian. He was born in Eganville, Ont., and studied medicine at McGill. After practicing successfully in Killaloe, Ont., for some years, he went to Cayuga about eleven years ago. He soon built up a large practice. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Isabelle Halliday, of Kingston, and six young sons and one daughter.

Groves, Dr. Osler M.—Dr. Osler M. Groves, of Carp, one of the most prominent physicians of Carleton County, Ont., died at his home on October 9, after a very brief illness. The late Dr. Groves was the son of the late Dr. G. H. Groves and was 38 years of age. He was coroner for Carleton County, and acted as medical health officer for three or four townships. Since the outbreak of the war he has been very active in patriotic work, and was president of the Carp branch of the Red Cross and acted as organizer for the Victory Loan drive in his district last year, and had much to do with its ultimate success. He was a graduate of McGill, and had taken a post-graduate course in Europe. He is survived by his widow and was an active member of the South March Masonic Order.

Halpenny, Dr. William.—Dr. William Halpenny, Med. '17, a member of the house staff of the Royal Victoria Hospital, died early on the morning of October 11th. Dr. Halpenny came from Renfrew County, Ont., and was a well-known young graduate. A year ago he lost his leg in a collision between an ambulance in which he was riding and a street car.

Lambert, Dr. E. M.—Dr. E. M. Lambert, Med. '31, one of Ottawa's most prominent medical men, succumbed to an attack of pleuro-pneumonia on October 20th. He had only been ailing a few days. Dr. Lambert was the son of Mr. F. X. Lambert, a retired civil servant, and was born in Ottawa 51 years ago. He got his early training at Ottawa University, and later studied medicine at McGill. After graduating from McGill he went to Europe, where he studied at London, Paris, Vienna, and Berlin.

Michaud, Dr. J. N.—Dr. J. Napoleon Michaud, Med. '06, who died at Bathurst, N.B., on October 20, was a native of Campbellton, N.B., where he received his early education. He continued his studies at St. Joseph's College, Mebramook, and took his medical course at McGill. Going to Bathurst in 1906, he began the practice of his profession and the following year he was married to Miss Hectorine, daughter of the late Mr. H. G. Poirier and Mrs. Poirier, who died about seven years ago. He afterwards married Mrs. Reginald McDonald, formerly Miss Elizabeth Mullins. In town affairs Dr. Michaud had occupied the important office of Mayor for two years. It was during his tenure of office that Bathurst made the greatest strides in its history, the pulp mill was erected and the water and sewerage systems installed. Since vacating the mayor's chair, Dr. Michaud's activities had found expression in his efforts to stimulate interest in the schools of the town of which he was a trustee. Besides being ever assiduous to the routine duties of that office, he inaugurated a lengthy annual prize list for the pupils of the schools of the town, which has already borne rich fruit. As a member of several fraternal societies, too, Dr. Michaud found time from his many other duties to make his influence felt. He had been president of the C. M. B. A., and the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Morin, Dr. Gaston.—Dr. Gaston Morin, Med. '08, eye, ear and nose specialist, 105 Rideau Street, Ottawa, one of the most prominent young physicians in the Capital, died on October 15, in a local hospital, where he was ill for the past ten days. Death was due to pneumonia, which followed an attack of influenza. The late Dr. Morin was in his 34th year. He had been practicing in Ottawa for the past four years. He was born in St. Hyacinthe, Que., a son of Mr. Joseph Morin, auditor-general in the Quebec Provincial Government, and at present residing in Quebec. He received his early education in St. Hyacinthe and was a graduate both of McGill and Laval Universities. After receiving his diplomas from these universities, he spent about six years studying in Europe and had experience in hospitals in London, England, Paris, Switzerland, Belgium, and in several cities in Germany, including Berlin just before coming to Ottawa to practice there, he was head of the oculist and aurist branch of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

Pearce, Dr. Leslie G.—A victim of the dread Spanish influenza, contracted in the discharge of his duty, Dr. Leslie G. Pearce, Med. '14, of Brantford, Ont., died there on October 5th. Dr. Pearce was an ear and throat specialist in that city and was ill only a week.

Born in Brantford, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pearce, 211 Wellington street, that city, and was gold medalist of his class at McGill. He commenced to practice in Brantford a comparatively short time ago and by his exceptional skill and urbanity had soon built up a very large clientele. He was an active member of Zion Church, being a teacher of the Sunday School and he and his wife were Presbyterian missionary delegates expecting in the not distant future to take up that work. A widow and two children are left to mourn his loss. He has two brothers in the army, one Major Pearce, of Ottawa, invalided home after wounds. Another brother is manager of the Bank of Hamilton in Winnipeg. He was a prominent Mason, having attained the 30th degree.

Plaisted, Miss G. M.—A McGill graduate died in Ottawa on October 16th, in the person of Miss Gertrude M. Plaisted, Arts '08. Miss Plaisted, who was born at River Desert, Que., was the daughter of the late Rev. Henry Plaisted, from 1899 to 1915 rector of Dunham, Que. Mr. Plaisted, until his death in 1917, was rector of Irberville. Miss Plaisted was educated at Dunham Ladies' College and at McGill, graduating from the latter institution in 1908. For the following five years she was assistant principal of Lachute

Academy, later held a similar position at Oshawa, and then entered the Civil Service at Ottawa.

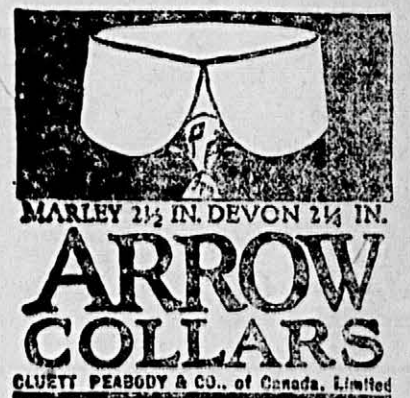

Richards, Dr. B. A.—The death of Dr. Bradford A. Richards, Med. '01, took place in Rochester, N.Y., on October 22nd, of pneumonia. He was the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Richards, of Yarmouth, N.S. He was in Yarmouth for three weeks following the death of his father, who died five weeks ago. Dr. Richards was a graduate of McGill, and later of New York hospitals. He went to Rochester about ten years ago. There he had been doing specialist work and was an acknowledged authority in his profession. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Scott, Dr. J. B.—After a brief illness, Dr. John Barrett Scott, Med. '03, second son of the late Rev. M. H. and Mrs. Scott, of Hull, Que., died on October 28th, at his residence at Moose Jaw, Sask. He was 31 years of age. Only two weeks ago, his brother, Gunter Herbert Scott, was reported killed in action. Besides his mother, he is survived by two brothers.

Stevenson, Bayne H.—Bayne Hamilton Stevenson, post-graduate, only surviving son of T. J. Stevenson, 222 Bishop street, died at Savannah, Ga., on October 16th. Mr. Stevenson was 27 years of age and received his early education at Bishop Ridley College and McGill. Latterly being engaged on the staff of the Foundation Co., constructing the Nickel Reduction Plant at Port Colborne, on the completion of which last February, he went with his company to Savannah, Ga., where they built a ship yard and were constructing many trawlers for the French Government. He had developed business qualities of a high order and was always very popular. Last January he was married to Florence, daughter of the late Captain Arthur and Mrs. McMaugh, of King St., St. Catharines, Ont.

Tilley, Dr. A. R.—Dr. Alexander Reid Tilley, one of the leading young physicians of Ottawa, died in St. Luke's Hospital there on October 13, after a week's illness. He was 33 years of age. He leaves a widow, who before her marriage was Miss Leitch, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Leitch and Mrs. Leitch, of Toronto, a young son, Alexander Reid, aged 6 years. The late Dr. Tilley was born in Hamilton and lived in Ottawa practically his entire life. He was educated at the Ottawa Collegiate Institute and spent a year in arts at McMaster University, Toronto. He then went to McGill, and studied medicine, graduating in 1906. His first year out of college was spent as house surgeon of the Protestant General hospital, Ottawa. Since then he has practised his profession in Hintonburgh. He was a member of Dalhousie Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and also of Rosemount L.O.L., No. 126. He also belonged to the Oddfellows. He held the rank of major in the Canadian Army Medical Corps and spent the summers of 1916 and 1917 at Petawawa Camp with No. 2 Field Ambulance.

BATTALION FULL OF PEP.

sent to the "Daily" weekly, if possible, and Private Reg. Herring, Arts '18, was named as editor.

A little over four months ago, June 21st, the Casandra, our transport, sailed up the River Thames, having been eighteen days crossing the Atlantic. The trip had been most delightful, the weather fine, and, of submarines there were none to be seen. Disembarking at Tilbury we stepped directly on to a troop train and immediately were on our way to the Canadian Segregation Camp at Frensham Pond. Segregation was a mild term as our six weeks spent within it were almost the same as six weeks spent in a military prison. Once a week, when there was a route march, were the only occasions that we got outside. The pace that we had to step was one that was one that kept us continually on the move. Intense squad drill and physical training every day, eight hours, representing an ordinary day. Sixty Bexhill Infantry Officers came down to give us some real "swank," and before they left they had accomplished their task, the boys being able to drill even better than they.

And so the weeks passed, six long weeks, which seemed to have no ending. Then came the "landing leave" the whole Battalion marching out of the camp with orders to be back August first. Wonderful were the tales that the boys had to tell on their return. Some had gone to Scotland, others to Ireland, while most of the boys had reached London and decided that they had no need to go further.

On August sixth, the Battalion departed from Frensham en route for Bovington Camp, in Dorset County. Bovington proved to be a regular camp and in a couple of days everyone was enjoying his new abode immensely.

Living in huts with a dozen or so canteens — Y.M.C.A., Church and Army & Navy — about, we seemed to have taken on a new lease of life. With two theatres in the camp, one could look forward to an evening's entertainment with the greatest pleasure.

Then the Tank work commenced. There were classes in Gunnery, Tanks, Reconnaissance, Pigeons, Gas, Camouflage, and other special subjects. The work was most interesting and the time passed rapidly. As each class in Gunnery completed its course, it went down to Lulworth, on the English Channel for practical work. The instruction was speeded up to double time, so that our men were doing twice the work that any other Battalion had accomplished up to that time. In addition, the Regiment had to supply all the camp guards, fatigues were abundant, and consequently a man off class work found his time fully occupied.

By the end of a month to drive a tank was almost as common as driving an auto. On smooth ground there isn't much difference in the sensation. It is only when the tank passes over a large embankment with a clear drop on the other side, that one experiences the thrills. The heat is intense, but not too much so, while the noise of the engines is terrific, but after an hour or so quite commonplace.

On October the first B Company marched down to Lulworth for a week's practice with the guns. Then back again to Bovington for a second week. On the fifteenth the Company came down to Sherford Bridge, where it remained until the twenty-eighth. From here it marched to Lulworth for a week, and then back to Bovington before leaving for France.

It was with the greatest delight that we learned of the interest taken in Rugby football and of the game between Ottawa and McGill. As yet we haven't heard the results, but every time the papers arrive in camp we turn directly to the sporting pages to see the latest "doze." Generally it's a month old, but very interesting, nevertheless.

The boys are looking forward to seeing a "McGill Daily" any day now. A "Daily" in camp now and then would be a Godsend. Some of the boys are having it sent to them, so within a week or two we ought to be pretty well informed with regard to what is taking place around the College.

Wishing The Daily the best of success.

We are,

Sincerely yours,
THE "MCGILL TANKERS."

ENEMY SHOT AND ILLNESS CAUSED OFF NUMBER OF GALLANT YOUNG GRADUATES

had been practicing in Montreal for some time and was 35 years of age.

Hamilton, Capt. C. D.—Dr. C. J. Hamilton, Cornwall, Ont., has been advised that his son, Capt. Clarence Dickinson Hamilton, Med. '11, of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, formerly of the Royal Army Medical Corps, died at sea on October 14th. No particulars as to the cause of death were given. The young doctor was crossing the ocean for the second time, having spent nearly three years in France with the Royal Army Medical Corps, going over in 1915 and returning in April last. On this occasion he was to have been attached to the Canadian Army Medical Corps. Captain Hamilton graduated from McGill in 1911 and practiced with his father in Cornwall for some time before volunteering for service in the Royal Army Medical Corps. He was in the 35th year of his age. Besides his father, he leaves two brothers—Mr. C. R. Hamilton, in Ottawa, and Dr. Maurice C. Hamilton, at home.

McLeod, Lieut. W. M.—A cable received by Mrs. C. H. McLeod, widow of the late Prof. McLeod, of the Faculty of Applied Science, conveyed the news that her third son, Lieut. William McLaren McLeod, Med. '18, of the C.A.M.C., had died suddenly at sea on the morning of the 10th October. It was only on the 26th September that Lieut. McLeod left Montreal, and after reaching an Atlantic port no further news had been received until this sad message was delivered to his home at 4135 Dorchester street yesterday. As to the cause of death, whether it was accident or sickness, no news was given.

Lieut. McLeod completed his medical course at McGill this year and left with a draft for service overseas with the Canadian Army Medical Corps. He was twenty-seven years old and was in apparently good health when he left. His brother, Donald, Science '16, an officer in the Royal Air Force, is a prisoner-of-war in Austria, having been captured in June of this year.

Macnaughton, Cadet A. P. F.—Cadet Athol P. Francis Macnaughton, past student of the Royal Air Force, died at Toronto on October 16, of influenza-pneumonia. Cadet Macnaughton was a son of Mr. W. O. Macnaughton, 715 St. Urban Street, Montreal. He was educated at the Montreal High School and then took an engineering course at McGill. Afterwards he went to Victoria, B.C., as engineer on shipbuilding work, for the Foundation Company of Montreal. He returned east last September, and joined the Royal Air Force at Toronto, since when he had been training at an aviation camp near there.

Steeves, Pte. Roydon E.—Pte. Roydon E. Steeves, at one time a medical student at McGill, died at the St. John, N.B., Military Hospital on October 12, of pleuro-pneumonia. He was 27 years of age and the only son of Mrs. Laura J. Steeves, Hillsboro, N.B. Deceased enlisted in the C. A. M. C. at St. John, in July last. He was also a former student of Acadia University.

Wilson, Lieut. C. P.—Lieut. Calvin P. Wilson, Science '16, attached to the Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery at Halifax, N.S., died at the Military Hospital there on October 18, of influenza-pneumonia. His home was at South March, Ont., where interment took place under Masonic auspices, on October 23.

Locke, Pte. James E.—Pte. James R. Locke, Arts '19, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Locke, 282 Redfern Avenue, Westmount, died of wounds in No. 30 Casualty Clearing Station on September 30th. Pte. Locke suffered from gunshot wounds in the head. Pte. Locke, who was a graduate of the Montreal High School, was 17 years of age when he enlisted for overseas service with the C. A. M. C., in May, 1916, and had just completed his first year in Arts. He served with No. 7 General Hospital from September, 1916, till March of this year, when, at his own request, he was transferred to the C.A.M.C., attached to a Toronto battalion, and later went to a Field Ambulance with which unit he was serving at the time of his death.

MISSING.

Ross, Lieut. Ian A.—Lieut. Ian A. Ross, Arts '18, son of John W. Ross, Montreal, was reported missing October 10th. Lieut. Ross enlisted with the Highland unit raised by Col. Poers Davidson and he trained with it, but as a junior officer he was left behind when that unit proceeded overseas. Seeing no prospect of getting overseas as a combatant for some time, Lieut. Ross transferred his energies to Y.M.C.A. work and crossed over with Col. Gerald Birks to whom he acted as secretary at headquarters in London. About a year ago he went over to the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in France, and early this year became business manager for the Association at headquarters of the second division on the line. Still desirous of entering the war as a combatant, Lieut. Ross transferred to the Highland battalion which was the predecessor of the unit with which he had enlisted, and it was with this battalion that he was killed in action in the great and notable victory of the Canadian Corps at Cambrai. Lieut. Ross, who is only 22 years old, graduated with honors at Westmount Academy, after which he spent a year in Switzerland studying French. Subsequently he took a commercial course at McGill and then joined the firm of P. S. Ross & Sons, chartered accountants.

Molson, Lieut. John H.—Fred. W. Molson, 290 Drummond Street, has been advised that his son, Lieut. John H. Molson, Arts '19, was reported wounded and missing on October 10. Lieut. Molson went overseas with a reinforcing draft for a Highland battalion about a year and two months ago, and after a short stay in Bramshott camp in England, he got over to France to join the same battalion as Lieut. Ian A. Ross, referred to above. He has been over at the front about a year, and so far has escaped hurt.

Captain Baby Returns.

AFTER more than three years' service along the firing line in France, Captain G. R. Baby, M.C., has returned to his home in Hamilton, for a well-earned rest. He has been granted a three months' furlough, at the expiration of which he will no doubt be called upon to return to France. Capt. Baby graduated from McGill in the spring of 1915 and joined up immediately with No. 3 Canadian General Hospital. Proceeding overseas as a private he was granted his captain's commission in England. He was offered the same rank in the Imperial Army but refused in order to be with the Canadian boys. He was transferred in France to the 4th Field Ambulance corps, with which unit he saw nearly four years' service. Capt. Baby won his military cross for valiant and untiring service during the big battles which were fought by the Allies before Amiens. He was placed in charge of a casualty clearing station, connected with the 6th brigade. His decoration was awarded on August 9 last.

Lieut. A. L. ("Plut") Wilson, Sci. '17, a well-known undergraduate who has been overseas since 1916 as a subaltern in the 32nd Battery, C.F.A., has been awarded the Military Cross for bravery on the field at Amiens, on August 9th. Lieut. Wilson was previously mentioned in despatches. He is the only son of A. E. Wilson, manager of the Bank of Montreal, at Pictou, Ont., and attended Trinity College School, Port Hope, before entering McGill in 1914. He was following the Architectural course.

Pte. Wilkey's Gallantry.

The deed for which Pte. A. N. Wilkey, Arts '15, (since killed in action) was awarded the D. C. M. is given in full in the London Gazette, as follows:—

"For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during a heavy hostile attack. During a bombardment a telephone wire was cut, and a fireman, who was in front was seen to be wounded. Amidst severe enemy shell and M. G. fire, he made his way to him over the open, dressed his wounds and carried him to the nearest shell hole, where he sat waist-deep in water for several hours, holding the wounded man in his arms. Finally he succeeded in getting him back to the trench. His exhibition of courage and determination was worthy of high praise."

Captains Donald F. Macdonnell, Med. '06; Carl Ewert, Med. '10; David Nathan, Med. '06, and Lieut. F. C. Greenwood, Med. '18, have joined the C. A. M. C.

Lieut. G. Drummond Burn, Arts '15, was married at Holy Trinity Church, Folkestone, England, on October 16, to Miss Audrey Katharine Tidswell, of Hamilton, Ont.

Dr. A. B. Hyndman, Med. '15, has entered into practice at Carp, Ont.

Drs. H. Baby, Med. '17; M. W. Bloomberg, Med. '18; W. J. Keefe, Med. '18; C. J. Kendall, Med. '18; R. H. McLaughlin, Med. '18, have been granted licenses of the Medical Council of Canada.

The bar to the Military Cross has been conferred upon Major Hugh Chisholm, M.C., Law '16, 2nd Battalion, 1st Division, C.E.F. Under his leadership, the battalion captured a storehouse at German headquarters, August 8. Major Chisholm won the Military Cross for gallant action in the battle of Tyne. He has been wounded twice. Major Chisholm is the son of the Rev. J. Chisholm, immigration chaplain, or 328 Mackay street, Montreal. He left his law studies at McGill at the outbreak of the war to enlist. From lieutenant he was promoted to the rank of captain, and two years ago was made major. Major Chisholm is a graduate of Queen's University. His brother was killed in action.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY AID VICTORY LOAN

As an instance of how science and industry have co-operated in helping to win the war, it is interesting to note that Sir Thomas White, K.C.M.G., Minister of Finance, has made a special "His Master's Voice" Record for the purpose of actually informing the Canadian Public in his own voice concerning the need of the second Victory Loan.

Science has thus made it possible for the voice of the Finance Minister to be heard in thousands of places in every part of the Country at the same time. The illustration shows Sir Thomas "caught in the act" as he made his special recording at the laboratories of the Berliner Gramophone Company, Limited, Montreal.

Arthur Anglin, Arch. '16, eldest son of Dr. J. V. Anglin, Lancaster Heights, St. John, N.B., is now wearing the M. C. ribbon. Lieut. Anglin went overseas with a McGill Battery which, since crossing to France, has been known as the 10th. With his unit Lieut. Anglin has been observation officer, and has been through harrowing times, especially at the battle of Amiens. He is Dr. Anglin's third son to win distinction while serving in France.

M. C. For Major Duclos.

Mr. Justice Duclos has received word that his son, Captain Victor Duclos, is the only son of Judge Duclos
